NOTES FOR GROWN-UPS

Is This Book Suitable for Your Child's Age?

This book contains a variety of activities for a suggested age range of 5 years and above. However, please remember that every child is different, and this is just a recommended age range. You will therefore find something suitable for your child's ability as well as extension and support material.

Here's What Your Child Will Learn

The major themes of Ramadan are covered in this book, and are detailed on the contents page. We highly encourage children to experience Ramadan holistically and not just a time when Muslims abstain from food and drink during daylight hours. Above all, Ramadan is about getting closer to Allah, and this is the main message of the book.

This is a (Very) Fun Way to Learn

We believe learning about Islam should be fun and exciting. We've designed these activities in that light and have contextualised the scenarios to reflect this approach.

Each activity contained in this book also promotes the development of one or more key skills, including:

- Spiritual Intelligence
- Creativity
- Fine Motor Skills
- Language Skills
- Problem-Solving
- Thinking Skills
- Observation Skills

The skills related to every activity can be found on each page.

Your Feedback is MORE Than Welcome!

Every effort has been made to ensure the information contained in this pack is accurate, authentic and pedagogically sound. If you find anything to the contrary, we welcome your feedback at:

www.learningroots.com/feedback

Stickers, Cut-Out & Pull-Out pages

In order to make learning fun and varied, some of the activities in this book require the use of stickers, cut-out objects and pull-out pages. All of these sections are clearly labelled in the book and are referenced on the contents pages. Please ensure you supervise your child when cutting objects from the cut-out pages, or have an adult cut it for them. Similarly, please keep the stickers out of reach from small children under the age of 3 years.

Suggestions on How to Use this Book

We recommend that you spread the activities out across the entire month. Some are designed to be used all month long (such as the calendar activity), while others may be more appropriate at certain times during the month (such as the last 10 nights of Ramadan or Eid). We highly recommend that you be present to support your child while they do the activities, in order to foster, create and cherish quality faith-filled moments with your child.

Sharing or Copying Pages from this Book

For the best experience, this publication has been designed to be used by one child. If you would like to use this book with more than one child, such as a large household or a class of children at an educational institution, please purchase one book for every child. Please contact us at support@learningroots.com for details on our discounts for educational institutions. Otherwise, no part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted, in any form, or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording or otherwise without prior written permission from Learning Roots.

YOUR SHOW GUIDE

Five categories cover the main topics in Ramadan.

Simple, short and clear instructions that are easy to follow.

Friendly characters build affinity to Islam in a fun way.

Key skills are used to develop your child holistically.

Simple reference numbers for you to find your way.

Major Ramadan topics are covered to ensure your child gets the essentials plus more.

Some activities make use of stickers which you can find at the back of the book.

Some activities require a grown-up to help explain or read instructions.

Big, bold and clear activities allow a level of self-controlled play by your child.

Off we go!

The Ramadan Story

● Start your Ramadan by reading this lovely story with a grown-up. It's a must-read!

"Thabit," said Mummy, "the great month of Ramadan starts tonight. In this month, we'll fast during the days and pray more to Allah at night."

Thabit looked a little confused. "What does fasting mean? Is that when you run really quickly?" Mummy smiled.

"Not quite," she said. "Fasting is when we don't eat or drink during the whole day, from the early morning until the evening when it gets dark."

"Not even a sip of water?" asked Thabit.

"Not even cookie crumbs," said Mummy. "And we do that for a whole month."

"But why do we have to do that?" asked Thabit.

"Because Allah has told us to. And Allah knows best," said Mummy. "Besides, fasting makes us stronger and teaches us to be in control."

"But why Ramadan? What's so special about this month?" asked Thabit.

"Because in Ramadan, the Quran came down to the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ."

“Ah...I see!”

“It came down on a night called ‘Laylatul Qadr’—the Night of Power,” explained Mummy.

“How much power did Allah put into that night?”

“Power that’s better than one thousand months!”

Thabit’s mouth gaped open.
“A thousand months?!”

“A thousand months indeed!” said Mummy.

“I definitely don’t want to miss that night, Mummy! Please wake me up so I can catch some of that power.”

“I will do in-sha-Allah,” said Mummy, “And at the end of Ramadan we’ll have a day of Eid.”

“What’s Eid?”

“Eid is a day we celebrate the end of Ramadan with a special prayer, meeting our family and friends, oh and of course...” Mummy raised her eyebrows.

“Of course what, Mummy?” asked Thabit as a smile spread across his face.

“Presents, Thabit. Presents!”

Your Get-Set Calendar

Follow the steps below to set up your own Ramadan calendar. Ask a grown-up to help you.

Find the pull-out calendar in this book and carefully, tear it off. Write your name at the top of the calendar and use the stickers to enter the Islamic and Gregorian years.

Next, fill in the days of Ramadan and the days of the Gregorian months as shown using the stickers provided. If there's not enough room at the end, continue on to the first row again.

Use your calendar every day!

Using the stickers provided, fill in the nights of Laylatul Qadr and the day of Eid.

Set yourself a goal this Ramadan and mark your progress on the calendar. For small children, their goals can be something like listening to the Quran everyday!

Night Shield

Ask a grown-up to read this amazing story to you and then discuss the questions at the end.

It was Ramadan in the city of Madinah and the Prophet Muhammad ﷺ left Abu Hurayrah in charge of looking after the food given in charity. When darkness covered the skies at night, a stranger sneaked in and stuffed handfuls of food into a bag. Abu Hurayrah ran up to the stranger in a flash and grabbed him. "I swear by Allah, I will take you to Allah's Messenger!" he said.

The stranger squirmed. "I'm really needy and have lots of people to look after. I really need this food," he said.

Abu Hurayrah let him go and met the Prophet ﷺ the following morning. "What did your prisoner do last night?" asked the Prophet ﷺ.

Abu Hurayrah was surprised. "O Messenger Allah! The person said he was really needy and had lots of people to look after, so I felt sorry for him and let him go."

"He lied to you, and he'll come again," said the Prophet ﷺ.

The following night, Abu Hurayrah pounced on the stranger as he returned to steal more food.

"I will definitely take you to Allah's Messenger," said Abu Hurayrah. "Let me go. I'm in desperate need and a lot of people depend on me for food. I promise I will not come back again."

Assured by the promise, Abu Hurayrah let the stranger go, and met the Prophet ﷺ the following morning. "What did your prisoner do last night?" asked the Prophet ﷺ.

"O Messenger Allah! He said he was really needy and had lots of people to look after, so I felt sorry for him and let him go."

"Surely he lied to you, and he'll return once more," said the Prophet ﷺ.

For the third night in a row, Abu Hurayrah waited patiently and caught the stranger stealing food once more.

"Now I will definitely take you to Allah's Messenger ﷺ! It's the third time you promised not to return, but you broke your promise and still came back," said Abu Hurayrah, pulling the stranger away.

"Please forgive me and I will tell you about some words by which Allah will keep you safe."

"What are they?" Abu Hurayrah raised his eyebrows.

"Whenever you go to bed, recite 'Ayat-al-Kursi'. If you do that, Allah will send an Angel to look after you and stay with you and no shaytan will come near you until morning."

So Abu Hurayrah let him go, and met the Prophet ﷺ the following morning. "What did your prisoner do last night?" asked the Prophet ﷺ.

"He said he would teach me some words by which Allah will keep me safe, so I let him go."

"What words?" asked the Prophet ﷺ.

"He said to me, that whenever I go to bed, I should recite Ayat-al-Kursi, and if I do so, Allah will send an Angel to watch over me and stay with me, and no shaytan will come near me till morning."

"He told the truth, even though he always lies. Abu Hurayrah, do you know who you were talking to these last three nights?" asked the Prophet ﷺ.

"No," replied Abu Hurayrah.

"It was Shaytan," said the Prophet ﷺ.

- 1 What should you recite before sleeping?
- 2 Who was the stranger?
- 3 Why did the stranger say the truth in the end?

Yummy Dates

With the help of a grown-up, follow Layla's instructions to make these delicious chocolate dipped dates!

Ingredients:

- 400g chocolate (chopped)
- 20 pitted dates
- 20 nuts of your choice (almonds, walnuts or pistachios, etc.)
- 35g coconut flakes

These would make a lovely treat on Eid!

Total Time:
45 minutes

You will need a skewer and parchment paper.

Line a baking tray with baking paper. Remove the date seed and stuff each date with the nut of your choice.

Melt the chocolate in a microwave-safe bowl for 3 minutes. Using a skewer, dip each date in the chocolate.

Place the dipped dates on the baking tray and sprinkle with coconut flakes, crushed nuts or drizzle with white chocolate.

Decorate the dates using the flags and stickers provided. Place the tray in the refrigerator for 30 minutes before serving.
